FUNDRAISERS, SHOPPING EVENINGS, TRUNK SHOWS, ANNIVERSARIES & MORE!

The new year has plenty of social excess to look forward to, but the end of 2017 was as animated as ever. At the second annual Fashion Fights Cancer, founder Angeles Almuna welcomed nearly 300 guests to raise funds for GLAM4GOOD, a nonprofit that advocates social impact through beauty and style initiatives. Among the guests was Ana Hughes-Freund, a breast cancer survivor who was the evening's honoree. >>> Fashionista Lisa Storie gathered an intimate group at Casa Tua for a dinner to celebrate her Ikaria brand's Goddess collection of luxury beach cover-ups. >>> In other fashion news, Valentino tapped Tommy Cabrerizo, Cris Cab and Brett David to host a shopping evening at its Bal Harbour Shops location for the brand's men's fall 2017 collection and raise funds for Ride2Revive, a nonprofit that provides ill children with memorable driving experiences. >>> Families enjoyed the ultimate pool day at the preview of The Beach Club at the 1 Hotel South Beach, where spa treatments, wellness activities and bites by chef Matthew Kenney were all part of the program. >>> Artefacto celebrated its 15 years in Miami with a soiree at the $12.5 million penthouse of Grove at Grand Bay. There, company owner Paulo Bacchi welcomed the talent behind Artefacto's annual Design House for cocktails and an alfresco dinner. >>> The Related Group and Terra Group joined forces for Lunch & Learn, a panel with various developers and brokers discussing the evolution of Coconut Grove. >>> Also on the real estate front: The Ritz-Carlton Residences, Sunny Isles Beach hosted a trunk show at its sales gallery to benefit victims of Hurricane Maria in Puerto Rico. Featured were garments by Oxygene, jewelry by Rosario and handbags by Sinful Ladies. >>> Shoma Group celebrated the debut of its Eleven on Lenox sales gallery with a South Beach-themed soiree that included Champagne bottle service and tunes by DJ YSL late into the night. More good times on film next month! —Michael Muzquiz
